Muzzling The Military

My Symbol is THE AMERICAN EAGLE. I stand for FREEDOM—for AMERICA—First, Last, and Always. I can neither be BOUGHT nor SOLD. — General Walker

An address made at Dallas, Texas
Dec. 12, by General Edwin A. Walker.

It is with great pride and a feeling of inadequacy that I stand before this tremendous audience—except—I am a Texan, and no Texan has ever been inadequate. Travis at the Alamo established our tradition, symbol and courage. As I stand before you, I have stood 30 years beside your sons in uniform—with grave and serious responsibilities to them and to our nation. While you have prayed for them, I too have prayed—for Divine guidance to give them the leadership they deserved. No man in service has felt more deeply or been more gravely concerned for their lives and their training. When I look at this audience, I see it tonight and may always—as the responsible parents, relatives and veterans of a great nation of fighting men—with the courage to live and die.

The homes—your homes—homes of sons and soldiers are to me the greatest and most sacred homes on earth. They are the backbone of the strength and courage in our armed forces, they are our way of life and our sovereignty; they are the power and the strength of our people and our nation.

From Lieutenant to General—I have been asked—what is the key to success of a commander. I lived with, and by, one answer: my complete faith in the American soldier. I revere the ground he walks on and his cause is forever sacred. I have seen him in combat with a bayonet and bloody. I have seen him in a great artillery team firing 22,000 rounds for 14 consecutive days, bleary-eyed and deaf from the shock and concussion of his own guns. I have led him twice in the middle of the night, in stealth on to foreign shores—rubber-boat landings from ships at sea. These are the men of America in their magnificence—in the glory of their greatest sacrifice—and in the hands of our Savior.

I am glad for the opportunity to tell you that in your home and community is the strength and courage of your sons—and your daughters, that comes only from the love and confidence of Christian, free American homes.

I call on you tonight to go with me further—not as a matter of curious or idle interest, but in the dedicated spirit of my own heart and soul—dedicated to duty - honor - country—the same as it has been for 34 years—including those four at the United States Military Academy. In this spirit, I ponder and reflect on our national crisis and my responsibilities to our great land and to the men standing on our frontiers to defend it. I would rest easily if I knew they were fully prepared and supported—but they are not—as we are not.

On one November I joined all patriots in civilian service—the supporting and reserve strength of our nation. I can assure you that it is to take an active part with you—in Texas and 49 other states—in the active soldier's cause on every frontier—from the local church and school to the training of troops in Berlin.

The honor accorded me by your state delegation tonight—I accept with humility and deep gratitude. I thank you for these honors and for the gracious welcome extended this day and evening. It is with enthusiasm and gratification that I discover in my native state the cause I have searched for, for ten long years. I find here the spirit of courage—not fear; the spirit of the Alamo and of Victory as at San Jacinto.

Tonight I stand alone before you as Edwin A. Walker. I have been charged with nothing. I have been found guilty of nothing. I have been punished for nothing. I have no grievances or regrets. Our hope is in the future, not the past. It is in the attack for the defense. My symbol is the American Eagle. I stand for freedom—for America—first, last, and always. I am a free man. I can neither be bought nor sold. I am proud to have served this nation in uniform and with its great soldiers. I am no longer a soldier. I am a civilian and proud to be "Mr." with all the freedom and rights of citizenship. In or out of uniform, the cause and responsibilities for our survival are the same. I welcome the opportunity to stand before you as a symbol of the capability to coordinate the inspired and unchallengeable power of the people with the strength of our military forces. Such unity of purpose and spirit would cause an immediate capitulation of reds and pinks from Dallas to Moscow to Peking.

The change in my position from officer to civilian may be unusual. I resigned, giving up all emoluments and benefits instead of retiring. This I did in order to be free and uncensored. It is my own making. I resigned after being assigned by the Army to Assistant Chief of Staff for Training and Operations in the U. S. Army Headquarters of the Pacific. This is a highly responsible and extensive training assignment over troops throughout the Pacific area. It could be no other than a recognition of my successful experience and capability in training. By this assignment, the Walker Case was closed. It is in line with enemy propaganda to try to keep the Case open. But the Army's action itself has closed the case. I am an expert on training by their hand and a free man by my own hand.

I was not able to continue in the military service with a General's command responsibility, since I could make no compromise with the oath of office after censorship had prevented me from giving my troops the training that I was responsible for.

Every officer in the military service and every governmental office has taken an oath of office to bear true faith and allegiance to the Constitution of the United States against all enemies foreign or domestic. This oath has too often been altered in practice—and distorted in meaning.

The oath is sworn to God. It is an individual covenant with God. Anyone not believing in the Supreme Being has falsified his signature and has falsified the written words of allegiance to the Constitution of this country. He has degraded himself, his country and his veracity.

The oath swears allegiance to the Constitution of the United States, the basic document for which we fight and the basic document of this government as a Republic under the overall sovereignty of the Savior of men.

Through sworn allegiance to the Constitution, we are sworn to be for America—we are not sworn to any man. Our oath is made to God for America—to defend her against all enemies. We have sworn no allegiance to any international body or organization and there is no allowance for any release of our sovereignty since the Constitution provides for none. Our oath applies to full sovereignty in America as provided in the Constitution. It provides for freedom of religion and worship. Today our relation and subordination to the United Nations puts every man signing the oath under a double standard. We are sworn to defend America but have to abide by UN decisions. Under these conditions, the oath becomes falsified and fictitious. I could no longer serve in uniform and be a collaborator with this release of our sovereignty to the UN.

I was sworn to defend this country against all enemies, foreign and domestic. To do this as a commander, requires under oath that I train every soldier to understand and oppose every enemy of America. I know our enemy. I know third-dimensional warfare—land, sea and air. I also know fourth-dimensional warfare and that through Gus Hall and thousands of others, the enemy has extended himself into our very midst with a capability to attack our soldiers and our cause from the rear.

I can assure you that I cannot devise a compromise with the oath of office. Others may be able to do so. The oath today, as a double standard, has become a most effective tool of the enemy. The immorality of this double standard is physically and mentally destructive and a tremendous time-consuming administrative burden.

Having seen so many moderate attitudes toward the oath of office and duty, honor and country, I knew on the 15th day of April that in order to carry out my responsibilities to this country and to my oath of office, I would have to forgo any personal interests and be prepared for any sacrifice. I was convinced of this by the vicious attack of the Overseas Weekly, an English language newspaper published in Germany for U.S. troops, and called by them the "Oversexed Weekly." It has become obvious to me that the Overseas Weekly was "cahoorting" with a very large media and communication system, international in extent. I found that staff members of the Overseas Weekly were given privilege cards to Army installations and press accreditation cards by the Department of Defense.

The "OVERSEAS WEEKLY," called the "OVERSEXED WEEKLY" by our troops in Europe is owned and directed by John Dornberg, Marion Von Rospach, Johanna Prym, Siegfried Naujocks, Eugene Bernard, Harold Melahn, — all Jews.

(Common Sense, issue 369)

On April 15, I pointed out that approximately nine years earlier, the Commanding General of the U. S. Army in Europe had banned the Overseas Weekly. I did not add at that time that within hours the paper had been reinstated. Reinstatement occurred by orders passed through Secretary of the Army, Frank Pace, the same functionary who had executed the decision to relieve General Douglas MacArthur in the Far East only the year before. The Secretary of Defense, Mr. McNamara, has stated that issues of the paper are "repulsive." Undersecretary for Public Relations, Mr. Arthur Sylvester, has been heard to say that the paper serves a purpose. I see nothing but a repulsive purpose.

Mr. Eugene Bernald has been reported by the press to be a director of the Overseas Weekly Corporation in Delaware and, also, an official of the International Media Company controlling hundreds of radio stations throughout the world. This company controls — among others — the Swann Island station off Cuba, the Elizabethville station in Katanga. The press reports Mr. Bernald on a trip through Africa in August of this year setting up radio time in many countries. The time was for Mr. G. Mennen Williams, the Administration's advisor on African affairs.

Army regulations require treating the Overseas Weekly like any other newspaper regardless of its intent or affiliations. When I did not, I ran head-on into censorship, antiquated traditions, and regulations that took no account of the devastating effects of this paper in a foreign country where the Communists and Kremlin keep the balance of our personal and military friendships and intents with foreign people on very thin ice.

There is a continuous program every night from Moscow, in English, directed at our troops in Europe. The voice is called "Moscow Molly" by the troops. Her propaganda is immoral, unscrupulous, corrupt, and destructive. My responsibilities for training included offsetting this, the Overseas Weekly, and other harmful images of our country and way of life.

This is fourth-dimensional warfare. We are at war, and all training must take this into account.

The Pro-Blue Program did take it into account. It was realistic combat in the fourth dimension, based on a cold-war directive of 1958. The program had been cleared by submission to higher headquarters in Nov. 1960. Instead of being canceled, it should have been—and still should be—instituted throughout the services. The program as it had commenced in the Division had only partially accomplished its purpose. With a 50 percent of more turnover every year of men coming and going, it would have taken another year to have accomplished its full implementation and capacity. The impact of the end of the Pro-Blue program in the 24th Division is further revealed in the comment of the soldier who wrote to his Congressman, "Well, it has happened. Thursday, 31 May, 1961, will go on the calendars in Moscow as a victory for world communism." May 31 was 46 days after the Overseas Weekly did its hatchet job.

If a soldier feels as thousands do, that he is being censored, there must be a necessity, and from all appearances a grave one, of great responsibility facing the Stennis Committee of the United States Senate. Senator Strom Thurmond of South Carolina has made a valiant and courageous stand for many months in his demand for investigation of censorship of the military. Censorship is not just pencil deletions from a speech. It is not just the Overseas Weekly case. It is paralysis or denial of anything mental or physical that a commander, his command, or a soldier, requires for the full employment of his weapons and entire capability—the where-withal for victory.

I have little doubt that a knowing public, having read Newsweek, Time, Life and Drew Pearson, will see through their propaganda and recognize their purpose. Our national security rests on your proper evaluation of the media. An improper evaluation becomes your responsibility and your deficiency in national defense. You owe it to your country to inform yourself. You need to evaluate the credibility of particular sources of news, such as Drew Pearson's column. You should know that the Congressional Record contains a list of 45 VIP's who impugned Pearson's veracity—including two Presidents. President Roosevelt said of Pearson, "The man is a chronic liar." President Tru- man said of one of Pearson's utterances, "It is a lie out of the whole cloth."

Certainly a man so widely recognized can be a symbol. "Pearsonism" is a useful term. The press itself needs protection from infiltration, which may be in the form, not of communism, but of Pearsonism. This protection of the press must come through public understanding and appreciation of Americanism.

The importance of Pearsonism is suggested by the fact that Pearson and Chief Justice Earl Warren were guests on the Meyer yacht sailing in the Mediterranean waters early last fall. The Meyer family is owner of Newsweek and the left-wing Washington Post. It was from this yachting trip that Drew Pearson visited Khrushchev in Moscow, and reported that Khrushchev said he had not released the two American fliers until after the Presidential inauguration in January in order to help President Kennedy. This is a brazen intrusion into internal American affairs.

The image of America, as I have seen it in the Far East and in the West, is distorted and grotesque. The media—Governmental and private—have failed to project the true image of a Christian free country, but they have presented instead a picture of corruption, immorality and materialism. This kind of propaganda, combined with censorship, has hastened our Retreat from Victory through 16 years.

The full force of censorship and propaganda in a combined operation began to be felt with the sell-out of our allies, Poland and China in the war-time conference at Tehran, Yalta, and Potsdam—and is continuing today.

Fifteen decisions have cost us our sovereignty and our security. I speak of them in the order of their occurrence in the past 16 years.

We allowed Soviet Russia three representatives in the United Nations to our one. On her record as an aggressor nation against Poland, Finland, and the Baltic States, she should not have been admitted to an organization of "peace-loving" nations at all.

We accepted a division of Germany and of the city of Berlin which is haunting us today. The arrangements regarding Berlin were and are fantastic, as you well know. Less well known is the fact that what we call "East Germany" is not East Germany at all by pre-war standards, but rather a central portion of the country. The really Eastern part of Germany was simply swallowed up by the Soviets after World War II and is not even contended. It is long forgotten, as the city of Koenigsberg, now known as Kaliningrad, Russia.

We adopted an international approach towards control of atomic energy. Under the influence of propaganda, we began trying to share knowledge and materials from our atomic plants with Soviet Russia.

We withheld atomic weapons from our own armed services. Secretary Forrestal in 1948 made a formal request to the White House for custody of the atomic bomb to be transferred from the civilian Atomic Energy Commission to the Department of Defense. President Truman ruled that custody of the military's most powerful weapon should remain with the civilian agency. To this day, the military are censored in their control of the nuclear weapons they need in combat. Every senior officer in your military establishment for the past ten years has been concerned or involved directly in the struggle to release atomic weapons from bureaucratic civilian control.

We operated the Berlin air-lift in 1948. This was hailed as a victory in the Cold War, but it was actually a defeat, since in taking to the air we submitted to Communist control of the ground. Today by allowing a wall to be built in Berlin, we have submitted to the Communist division of Germany. Can you visualize a wall through the center of Dallas and the resulting effects on Freedom and on this State of Texas?

General George E. Stratemeyer, Commander of U.S. Air Forces in the Far East under MacArthur.

The recall of MacArthur from Korea is a historic example of muzzling the military. It was a bitter defeat for America. The command in Korea was not only muzzled but hogtied. I was in Korea. We were not permitted to attack with a battalion without clearance from Washington. I, as regimental commander, was not permitted to attack with anything larger than a platoon without clearance from Army Headquarters. This left the regimental commander, battalion commander, and company commander with no power of decision. I was a regimental commander, and based on orders from the Panmunjom conference table had to tell my troops as late as ten o' clock at night that they would or would not shoot at the enemy the next day. On a non-shooting day the enemy openly rebuilt his trenches, redispersed his troops, and moved closer to our position. This is coexistence on the battlefield, and censorship of victory. It is censorship and muzzling not just generals, but their guns. This censorship and muzzling was further implemented by 14 nations deciding for us and assuring for us that we would not bomb across the Yalu, even with conventional bombs.

Truman censored victory by calling an American fought war a UN police action, by recalling MacArthur, and by trying to close the book on Korea. But the American people are still concerned about the sacrifice of our troops and will yet atone for the 33,000 deaths of American boys in Korea, by defeating Communism throughout the world. As a symbol of our determination to do this, I urge you to support the American Legion in its resolution to urge the Congress to give Douglas MacArthur the rank of General of the Armies — held hitherto only by General John J. Pershing.

Pres. Eisenhower met "at the Summit" with Khrushchev and Bulganin in 1955 — a resumption of the fatal Tehran, Yalta, Potsdam, Panmunjom conference technique of coexistence, which has never been to our advantage. Coexistence is in effect.

In 1957 the use of Federal troops in Arkansas was a Presidential decision. The military had no participation in the decision. The use of Federal troops without a request from a Governor is a violation of the guaranteed rights of a state under the U.S. Constitution. I was Commander of the Arkansas Military District long before the decision was reached. I was appointed Commander of all troops entering the state. This appointment to command was unavoidable in uniform, no matter how objectionable to me. This experience — and Korea — and Germany — illustrate the conflict arising from two interpretations of the oath of office. The same censorship was responsible for Little Rock, for the Panmunjom conference table, and for elimination of the Pro-Blue Program. To investigate censorship thoroughly is to defend States Rights.

Of all the defeats in the Cold War, the capture of Cuba by the Communists is the most unacceptable. Any disagreement over external vs internal danger should be resolved by the case of Cuba, which is external to the United States, but internal to the Monroe Doctrine. Super-patriots knew Castro was a Communist in 1957, but moderate patriots, such as the State Department, haven't admitted it yet. They were told by Castro himself last week, so they will have a difficult time continuing to use the term "Castro-ism." Here we have the real example of the capability of the media — in the canonization of Castro. The Pearsonites in this case included Herbert L. Matthews in the New York Times, and Andrew St. George in Look and Coronet magazines, who sold Castro to the American people.

Khrushchev's visit to this country in 1959 by invitation was a disgusting exhibition.

As Stalin's Commissar in the Ukraine, Khrushchev buried alive and dead 12,000 people — the entire city of Vinitia. The Reader's Digest called Khrushchev The Killer in the Kremlin. He is experienced in burying people. He condescended in a phoney stunt to join Mrs. Roosevelt at her husband's grave. But he was not so phoney when he left Camp David and said, "All your President needs is more time."

The Cuban invasion fiasco and my relief from command in Germany occurred on the same day — April 17, 1961 — a hard day for the Pentagon. The military in the Pentagon were not responsible for either event, but caught blame for both. After 16 years on the defensive, Cuba was, and is, our greatest opportunity to take the offensive. I endorse what Tom Anderson said: "In order to solve Berlin, we must take Havana." While the free world retreats, censorship denies the full effectiveness and provides for the continuing ineffectiveness of military power strategy — an important and vital arm of national policy.

The last decision is fundamental. It is the censorship of the military. To understand the importance of this, look at the matter from the point of view of the Communist.

A MESSAGE and an INVITATION

TO FRIENDS OF COMMON SENSE:

Twelve years ago this small corporation was organized to make available to Common Sense, by lease contract, all equipment and machinery for use in its publishing.

For sixteen years Common Sense group has worked hard. We have watched their extreme sacrifice as they have grown to be a strong force in bringing truths to its readers.

The few of us who comprise the Freedom Press, Inc., are proud of the part we have played. Up to now we have not asked anyone to help us in this project, but now we must.

They desperately need a special press other than the present large newspaper press. They need this urgently to place them in a position to produce greater volume and help finance themselves, as they have no revenue from advertising, and the subscription rate is kept at a minimum.

So we ask the patriotic friends of Common Sense to join with us in purchasing this press for lease to them.

In addition to what we have we need $4,000.00.

We do not desire anyone to give beyond their means. No doubt some will get pleasure in helping substantially, but we wish God's blessing on all who help us, large or small. All contributions will be acknowledged. Kindly make checks or money orders or send cash to:

General Kirke B. Lawton asked Senator Joseph McCarthy to investigate communist spies at Fort Monmouth; was prevented from testifying for McCarthy by the invisible government.

Would the Kremlin not see that the greatest obstacle in their way to world dictatorship was a large well-armed, well-trained military establishment in the United States of America? Would not the top priority item on their agenda be the elimination or neutralization of that establishment? I am sure it would be. They would set out on an three or the following plans: (1) to reduce the size of the U.S. armed forces to a point where they would be helpless to oppose the Red Armies of Russia and China; (2) to disarm the U.S. military by limitations on their use of weapons — by prohibition, if possible, of their use of their most powerful weapons, which are the nuclear or atomic weapons; (3) to undermine the training of the soldier which develops not only the skills of fighting, but the most basic military factor of all, the morale, the determination the sense of purpose. This indestructible will to win, combined with the power of the people and their blessings from God, is the source of all military success.

They have attacked unceasingly our personnel security clearance system. And when Adam Yarmolinsky — presently the special assistant to Mr. McNamara — was claiming our security was too rigid, two spy traitors walked out of it and are now in Moscow. The media in this country have grave and serious effects in diverting the public mind from the actual sabotage. It is the flood of false images in the news media that has led this nation to what President Kennedy called our "dire peril."

The most basic issue of all is the Communist success in undermining and corrupting our training of the youth in schools and in our military forces. The preparation of our fighting men technically and psychologically is a command responsibility that becomes more necessary today, and more impossible, as the two headed monster of split sovereignty divides to conquer. To abolish effective training in fourth-dimensional warfare is to neutralize the armed services and our country's defense.

With 30 years of military experience, I am now a citizen; and it is my duty to say right now, about our army today: I have never seen an army with a greater cause for a great country with a more obvious total enemy, that had less mission and purpose.

If we refer back to Korea, such lack of mission and purpose resulted in the psychology of rout. This was called "BUG OUT" by the soldier. It spread like wild fire and threatened total demoralization. With great leadership and appeal to the American soldiers' courage and ability, the trend was reversed. But not without sacrifice on the battlefield and in the PW cages. I would emphasize here again that for the first time the American soldier was fighting a UN Police Action and was a victim of the two headed monster.

I have reviewed for you 16 years and many policy decisions in America's retreat from victory. I am sure substantial evidence is available to conclude that our past experiences were very likely devised in intrigue and executed in collaboration—which has been hidden by censorship. Your investigation of censorship is your right—and the duty of your investigating committee in the Congress. The Senate Preparedness Subcommittee, headed by Senator John Stennis of Mississippi, has the assignment of investigating censorship of the military. It was given this assignment by a vote of 16 to 1 in the armed services committee. Censorship in its broad and truest sense is responsible for the Retreat from Victory which I have described. It is such policy decisions as I have mentioned tonight, the intrigue back of them and the open propaganda for them, that the Stennis Committee is charged to explore and expose.

I expect to appear. My responsibility to the Committee and their responsibility to you leads me to the identification of some others who should also be called—soldiers who know from experience what the censorship of victory can do to national defense.

General Douglas MacArthur's recall from the far East was a tragic turning point in our country's history—an obvious censorship of the determination to win. The only consolation is that this truly great General did not have to sit at the conference table with bandits. His unparalleled knowledge could be of inestimable value to the Preparedness Subcommittee.

General Mark Clark once told a Dallas audience that he was the only United States commander in history who had been compelled to capitulate on the battlefield. Investigation should find out whether the compulsion came from the enemy which he faced or censorship.

General George E. Stratemeyer, Commander of U.S. Air Forces in the Far East at the time of Korea, has a special understanding of censorship, based on broad experience, including controversy with a leading exponent of censorship, Philip Jessup.

General James A. Van Fleet, Commander of the 8th Army in Korea, was so restricted that he could only actively engage a company without permission. General Van Fleet must have felt the censorship in Korea all the more keenly because he had previously commanded in Greece the only Cold War operation we have ever won.

Admiral Husband E. Kimmel, Commander of the fleet at Pearl Harbor, was censored by being deprived of information that the Japanese would attack, which was available in Washington. A nuclear disaster by equal administrative error would have much more devastating results.

General Edward E. Almond, Chief of Staff to General MacArthur in the Far East, and Commander of the X Corps in Korea, revealed his understanding of censorship when he told another Senate Committee this about American soldiers: "Of course they held. American lines always will hold, unless they are TOO MUCH RESTRICTED by what the command away from the front imposes."

General C. A. Willoughby, MacArthur's Chief of Intelligence, once endured criticism from Washington for exposing the Communist spy, Agnes Smedley.

General Kirk B. Lawton was censored when he undertook to give constructive assistance to Senator Joseph R. McCarthy's investigation of Fort Monmouth, N. J., where evidences of subversion appeared.

Among those I have just named are experts on existing arrangements for control of nuclear weapons. Over-control of atomic weapons is censorship of military responsibilities, plans and preparedness. We have never been without combined Force, that would reduce Russia to where she would be no threat to anyone. These plans have to provide for the use of atomic weapons since the enemy has such weapons. Yet, the military has no assurance that these weapons can be used according to plan, because political considerations are a factor of determination with any President. For example, in 1948, Defense Secretary Forrestal made a formal request to the White House for custody of the atomic bomb by the Department of Defense. Pres. Truman told Forrestal that he agreed with him, but that for political reasons he would have to refuse the request. This has had a great demoralizing effect on military men—to face the continuing possibility of being denied the use of weapons which the enemy has in his arsenal, and further and specifically, denied their use until after the enemy has used them and thus accepting, by Presidential decision, the suffering and devastation of the initial attack.

The subversion of U.S. interests is accomplished by a class of men who believe that in "One World" of "Peace" and "Internationalism." U.S. sovereignty and independence are obsolete, and that it is their duty through a "long twilight struggle" to see to it that the United States never makes any forthright assertion of its sovereignty and independence. Their motto has been expressed as "interdependence" and their slogan: "There is no longer any alternative to peace."

This obviously means the surrender of U.S. sovereignty and independence, and these men are prepared to pay the price. Because they know the majority of American citizens are not willing to pay this price, they believe that the true direction of national policy should be concealed from the mass of the American people.

Because this whole outlook is alien to the military mind as it has been trained in the U.S.—as represented by the traditions of West Point and other service academies—the censors dislike and distrust the military mind and want to change it or get rid of it. Because the censor's outlook is also alien to the deepest beliefs of the American people, a bond of sympathy and common determination has developed between the military and the people at large.

The censors fear the development of this bond, and that is why the Fulbright Memorandum was written.

This Memorandum reads, in part:

"If the military is infected with this virus of right-wing radicalism, the danger is worthy of attention. If it (the military) believes the public is (also infected with right-wing radicalism), the danger is enhanced. If, by the process of the military educating the public, the fevers of both groups are raised, the danger is great indeed."

Fulbright has expressed the danger to the class of men I have referred to. He has reason to fear, both for his class of men and for himself, since a more educated public still has access to the ballot box, through which they can attack—and also with their Congress and the Stennis Committee.

The Fulbright Memorandum suggests that the actual operation of troop education should be put into civilian hands. This is parallel to the Communist system of having political commissars with the troops.

Mr. Fulbright has other worries in his relationship with the State Dept. It is the broad knowledge of senior officers serving on "Country Teams." This is the official term—"Country Team"—for the team in every foreign country where the State Dept. and the military are represented. The senior military officer in that country is a member of the team but the State Department official is in charge of the team and makes the report to Washington. Senator Fulbright's Memorandum and censorship tactics expose his likely true concern about the extensive knowledge of military personnel in 70 foreign countries with their knowledge of State Department's unrepresentative and misrepresentative reporting. Such teams are all over the world in at least 70 countries for the past 15 years. This should indicate the extensive world-wide military information that is available to any Congressional Committee and that could easily establish and clarify our failures for a decade. Mr. Fulbright obviously would like to censor any knowledge of our national policy, since it is continuously inconsistent with our military mission and objective. This is exemplified by Russia having been the greatest beneficiary of our foreign policy, of any country in the world since 1933.

Tonight as I have entered this hall and stood before you, I know I could have had many purposes and objectives. I know that there is organization behind the enemy's desire to destroy our freedoms and our hopes. I am a target for destruction. I have no fear, and I give "no quarter." I have drawn the battle line which has only two sides. In drawing the line, I established my one and my only true purpose and objective—that is, an everlasting America with freedom for all. I refuse to accept the 38th parallel or our present terms of surrender. I stand with Travis to die, for Sam Houston to conquer. I would betray the confidence reposed in me by the American people if I had not warned you of the menace of communism and the peril facing this nation today. I therefore warn you now to beware of the enemy, foreign and domestic. To beware of his teachings and his preachings. You should recognize that the youth of this country is exposed and infiltrated as shown in the film "Operation Abolition." This is some of the same youth that enters your Army and that is in it today. Since the Army is our defense and our security, I believe our work is cut out for us. Our duty is obvious. It starts in the home, in the school, in the church, in business, in the ballot box, on the street, and in every public gathering. It is a crusade of all patriots for the truth.

Our symbol is the American eagle, devoid and unscathed by partisan politics.

Super-patriots have lead many squads and platoons.

They have died in the assault. Fear and moderation have made followers and not leaders. Men that stand out and stand fast have been promoted to Corporal and to General.

The friends of Daniel have refused to bow down at the sound of the king's music.

They did not change their position but became conspicuous when everyone else did bow down. They endured and they lived through the fiery furnace in loyalty to their faith. I would say to you, stand up beside Daniel and be counted.

A true American fears God and nobody else.

"I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ. For it is the power of God unto salvation to everyone that believeth." If God be for us who then can be against us?"
